Just Energy Partners with energyX Solutions to offer Free Energy Audits to Small Commercial and Residential Customers

Toronto, Ontario – June 13, 2017: Leading North American retail energy provider Just Energy has partnered with energyX, a technology company in the energy management and conservation space, to provide MyEnergyXpert to small commercial and residential customers.

An MIT award-winning product, MyEnergyXpert, is an online energy audit tool that empowers homes and businesses to lower their energy use, save money and reduce their carbon footprint. Just Energy is leading the way as a trusted energy advisor with this added tool that offers:

- energy saving programs, products, retrofits and rebates for customers
- a consultative service approach that puts more control into the hands of energy consumers
- a comprehensive online energy audit platform and online marketplace that complements Just Energy's existing products

“With MyEnergyXpert, we are pleased to add to our growing portfolio of energy management tools” says Deb Merrill, Just Energy’s co-Chief Executive Officer. “The way we consume energy is evolving rapidly, and so is our ability to capture utilization insight. This is yet another way we are working to help customers reduce their energy costs by helping them identify opportunities to reduce their consumption.”

“Just Energy has been an ideal partner to demonstrate how energy consumers have options and opportunities to better manage their energy spend. We are honored to work with them across North America and empower their customers to take action towards energy efficiency,” commented Nishaant Sangaavi, CEO of energyX.
